Bordeaux 2010 – perfection strikes again?

1st April 2011...Early indications show that Bordeaux 2010 looks set to be a very special vintage according to Berrys' Fine Wine Director, Simon Staples.

“After the hype and chaos that was Bordeaux 2009, it seems quite incredible to think that yet another great vintage may be on our doorstep. All the early indications are that this vintage is very special, with perfect flowering, a warm but dry August and beautiful weather at harvest to ensure a crop of perfectly matured and ripe, juicy grapes,” says Simon who is heading for the en primeur tastings on Sunday (3rd April).

“2009 was a great final chapter to what has been the most successful decade Bordeaux has ever seen, but 2010 is looking set to be the start of another one.”

This year's team of six Berrys' experts will kick off the week-long tasting on 4th April. A further group of salesman from Berry Bros. & Rudd in the UK will travel to Bordeaux on 10th April. The following week staff from Berrys in Japan will also taste the wines.
